

Northwest Teaching for Social Justice 11th Annual Conference

October 20, 2018

Keynote: Winona LaDuke

Is a longtime environmental justice activist, writer, and executive director of Honor the Earth. LaDuke lives at the Ojibwe White Earth Reservation in Minnesota. She was featured in the new full-length documentary, First Daughter and the Black Snake

8AM to 4:30 PM

Portland, Oregon

Previous Sample Workshops:

Chinese Laborers in the Pacific Northwest
Gentrification: Teaching About Race and Dispossession
Indigenous Peoples Confront the Climate Crisis
Queering Elementary Education; Race, Place, and Food; Slam Poetry
Testing, Charters, and Strikes; Talking About Skin Color with Young Children
STEM Teaching for Social Justice
Building an Opt-Out Movement in Your Community
My Baby Rides the Short Bus
Cross-cultural Collaboration

OVER 60 Workshops in three different sessions!

Register Online Now: www.nwtsj.org

Lunch included. $35.00, $10.00 students

For more information, contact info@nwtsj.org

No one will be turned away for inability to pay; please let us know in advance if you need assistance.

Hosted by: Portland Area Rethinking Schools, Washington Education Association, Oregon Writing Project at Lewis & Clark College, Puget Sound Rethinking Schools, Critical Educators Collective and Rethinking Schools magazine