

Northwest Teaching for Social Justice
11th Annual Conference
October 20, 2018

Keynote: Winona LaDuke

Longtime environmental justice activist, writer, and executive director of Honor the Earth. LaDuke lives at the Ojibwe White Earth Reservation in Minnesota and is featured in the new full-length documentary, First Daughter and the Black Snake

8AM to 4:30 PM

Madison High School, Portland, Oregon

This year's conference has more than 80 workshops. A sampling:

Nurturing Black Children: Black Mothers Speak About Raising and Teaching Black Lives in White Spaces
Senate Bill 13: Tribal History/Shared History
Using Math to Calculate Arguments About Climate Change
We Are the Union: Forging Our Path Forward in the Aftermath of Janus
K-12 Ethnic Studies: Where We Are Now and Where Should We Be Headed?
Little Kids, Big Ideas: Teaching Social Issues and Global Conflicts with Young Children
Gender and Reproductive Justice
Sugar Subterfuge
Home Language as a Human Right: Welcoming Students' Languages into Our Classrooms
Telling the Untold Narrative: The Kahuku People's Struggle

Register online now: www.nwtsj.org

Lunch included. $35, $10 students

For more information, contact info@nwtsj.org

No one will be turned away for inability to pay; please let us know in advance if you need assistance.

Register onsite for credit, PDUs, and clock hours:

Earn one semester hour credit from Lewis & Clark ($100), PDUs from Oregon Writing Project, or clock hours from Heritage University

Hosted by: Puget Sound Rethinking Schools, Social Equality Educators (Seattle), the Oregon Writing Project at Lewis & Clark College, Portland Association of Teachers, Critical Educators Collective (Portland area), and Rethinking Schools